

DREAMING THE WORLD INTO BEING DEATH AND REBIRTH

An Evening Lecture by Linda Fitch
Dean of the Healing The Light Body School

Death is not a topic most people want to acknowledge, much less discuss. For the shaman, understanding death and allowing it to become like a dialog with a lover allows us to be fully alive. The Shaman's mandate is to dream the world into being, so we must first clear those places where we are stalked by death - to be fully present and awake while we dream. We must clear the "death" that is part of our genetic makeup, part of our karmic story and let go of the old stories and uncompleted business. Otherwise, we unconsciously continue to dream our old dream.

Re-birth is much easier to talk about than death. But it is death that allows us the freedom to be reborn, literally and symbolically. Every shamanic path has death as part of their initiation to become a person of knowledge and power. When we have symbolically experienced our own death we are free to dream a new world into being. Please join Linda to hear how to:

- gracefully let go of what holds or stalks us.
- become visionaries and dreamers.
